TADA! Youth Theater's 2008-2009 Season will include the family musicals

Golly Gee Whiz, Everything About A Family (Almost), and Little House Of Cookies

NEW YORK, NY - TADA! Youth Theater (Janine Nina Trevens, Executive & Artistic Director), the City's "best known children's musical theater" announces three great productions for the whole family. The season will begin with the musical Golly Gee Whiz, book and music by Eric Rockwell and book and lyrics by Joanne Bogart. Followed by the world premiere of Everything About A Family (Almost), conceived and written by members of the TADA! Resident Youth Ensemble with music by various composers and lastly The Little House of Cookies, book by Janine Nina Trevens, Music and Lyrics by Joel Gelpe at TADA! Theater (15 West 28th Street).

Marking its 10th anniversary, Golly Gee Whiz is a fun and frolicking family musical based on the classic Judy Garland and Mickey Rooney films of the 1930's. It is 1939 and even the town of Happyville is depressed, especially the kids. But what can a group of kids do to change the town's economy? "Hey, kids let's put on a show!" says Mickey. "I know my father's got a barn!" exclaims Judy. They are sure it will be such a great show that folks will come from miles around to see it, and re-establish Happyville as the bustling town that it once was. This musical has a book and music by Eric Rockwell and book and lyrics by Joanne Bogart will be directed and choreographed by Joanna Greer with musical direction by Jim Colleran. Performances January 9th- February 15th

TADA! will continue the season with one from the much beloved, "Everything About" series, which the NY Times has called "delightfully comic" and this year we learn Everything About A Family (Almost). This lively musical is conceived by the TADA! Resident Youth Ensemble where members will literally "co-author" the book through improvisation and theater games, and will feature music by a variety of artists. Family has never been this fun! Performances: April 17th – May 17th

Finally, TADA! will close the season with first musical ever produced at TADA! This "scrumptious musical" The Little House Of Cookies has a book by Janine Nina Trevens; Music and Lyrics by Joel Gelpe. An adaptation of Eleanor Clymer's The Tiny Little House, The Little House Of Cookies follows some neighborhood kids as they come up with the idea to use an abandoned house as a 'boys-only' clubhouse. But this house has a different plan; when they try to enter, the door becomes too small for them. However, Jane and Alice have no problem turning the house into a homemade cookie shop. That is, until the mean old landlord arrives to collect rent... Performances: July 10th - August 1st

About TADA! And TADA!'s Mission: Co-founded in 1984 by Janine Nina Trevens and Linda Reiff, TADA! Is a unique, non-profit, 501(c)3 youth theater that produces original musicals performed by New York City kids ages 8-18 for family audiences; a year-round Resident Youth Ensemble composed of over 70 NYC kids ages 8-18; renowned education programs in more than 47 public schools; theater classes taught by professional teaching artists, and an annual one-act playwriting contest and free staged reading series geared towards teen actors and audiences. TADA! provides young people of different backgrounds the opportunity to explore and perform theater together in an educational, supportive, and professional environment. TADA! introduces musical theater to children through performances and classes, thereby creating theater artists and audiences for the future. Young people gain self-confidence and learn commitment, responsibility, communication and teamwork—these skills are critical to young people's success both in school and in life.
